LETTER FROM THE EDITOR/PRESIDENT

There are many things I wish for my family during the holidays and this seems like the perfect forum to tell you all what those things are.

I wish for you the comfort of knowing you can be with your family through the holidays no matter how far apart you may be at the moment. I hope you can come from miles away if you have to, to be with each other on the most special days of the year.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR/PRESIDENT (con't)

I wish for you peace. Sometimes when families do get together, peace is difficult at times so I wish for you the ability to be with each other in ways that show appreciation for each other, love for one another, and an ability to listen to each other.

I wish for you the ability to share. Not things, but parts of you. Sharing parts of you that you might normally hold back in reserve for more desperate times or simply for other people. Sharing parts of you that "get your glow on," and make you shine like that angel at the top of your tree.

But mostly I wish for you love. Love of each other, love of friends, love of the processes of the holidays, and love of the world. What could be better than looking into your child's face knowing that you couldn't possibly hold any more love in your heart for him or her?

I hope you enjoy your holidays like never before. That you experience something new and refreshing to make memories for sharing with future generations to come. May you be peaceful, happy, and well all through the days.
